Welcome to Fremont and Dodge County

We are happy to say that Fremont and Dodge County are OPEN for business.

With over 152 years of covering Dodge County, the Fremont Tribune is grateful to again partner with the Fremont & Dodge County Convention and Visitor's Bureau to produce Visit Fremont and Dodge County.

Our main goal in partnering with the DCCVB is to produce a beautiful magazine filled with the many reasons we believe you should visit. Consequently, Visit Fremont is filled with where to stay, play and eat.

We also commissioned our newsroom to tell a few compelling stories which provide more insight into our community. News Editor Tammy Real-McKeighan explores how Fremont is a growing hub for the arts. Reporter Collin Spilnek writes about fishing in Fremont and Dodge County and how under the radar it is while Noah Johnson explores myriad things to do outside but goes zeros in on some adventures that will get the adrenaline pumping near Fremont.

Any project of this magnitude takes time. This project started over a year ago and work for next year's publication will start immediately upon delivery of this year's. Please feel free to reach out to me directly, with ideas for next year via email Vincent.Laboy@lee.net, phone: 402-941-1422 or stop in and see us in Historic Downtown Fremont at 135 North Main Street.

Every subscriber of the Fremont Tribune will receive a complimentary issue of Visit Fremont. We hope you are proud of our community and will be willing to share this publication with friends both near and far. More copies can be obtained from the DCCVB at 529 North Main Street. Or you can go online to visitfremontne.org and get one mailed.

Who knows, maybe your friends or kids will come and visit. Better yet, maybe they will want to become our neighbors.

See you soon,
Vincent Laboy
Publisher, Fremont Tribune

On behalf of our citizens, we welcome you to Fremont and Dodge County.

We hope you have the opportunity to experience some of the many offerings, entertainment venues, and dining establishments in the area.

Whether you visit one of the many lakes at the Fremont State Lakes Recreation Area, visit one of the many local shops in "Northeast Nebraska's Antique Capital", or have some fun at an area festival — we are confident that you will find something unforgettable right here in Fremont and Dodge County that will make you want to keep coming back.

The Fremont & Dodge County Convention and Visitor's Bureau, located in historic downtown Fremont, wishes to help you make the most of your visit.

This magazine is full of reasons to visit Fremont and Dodge County for a day, a long weekend or even longer. Once you're here and worked up an appetite taking part in all of the fun things to do, there is a wide range of restaurants right here that will help give you the energy for more. A day of fun and a nice meal or two can make even the most adventurous person sleepy. There are a number of lodging choices in this guide too.

Start planning your adventure in Fremont and Dodge County today. If you have the time, stop in and see us. We would love to pass along some of our favorites.

Lots of ENTERTAINMENT

Drama, dance, art, music, film among options in Fremont

TAMMY REAL-MCKEIGHAN

Entertainment options abound in Fremont. From music and drama at Midland University and Fremont Opera House to the variety of artistic offerings at the Fremont Area Art Association, the city by the scenic Platte River offers an array of opportunities for those seeking fun and pleasurable experiences.

Fremont is also the location of the Digg Site Productions which brings directors and film crews to the area.

Movies have been filmed here with plans for more productions in the works. Tourists, who like seeing — and having their photos taken — in the locations where movies have been filmed, may recognize some of those spots in films like the TV movie, "12 Days of Christmas."

For those wanting to enjoy theatrical and musical production or visual arts opportunities, several prospects are available.

Consider some of the options:

Midland University

Situated in the heart of Fremont, Midland's picturesque, tree-filled campus is home to its award-winning Heritage Arboretum and Cross at the Center fountain.

The university offers a host of theater, dance, instrumental and vocal music performances throughout the year.

These performances — many of which are free — are open to the public. Ticket information for other events can be found at www.midlandu.edu/tickets.

This year, theater-lovers can get into the holiday spirit with the "White Christmas" show and later be moved by the poignant "Diary of Anne Frank" in March 2022. After that, they can enjoy the lively musical, "Hair."

All productions are performed by Midland students ready to make their mark on the world.

With that in mind, soon-to-be guests are encouraged to mark their calendars for the 2021-22 theater season, which include: "Piece of My Heart," Oct. 7-10; "White Christmas," Nov. 11-14; "Pippin," Feb. 3-6; "Diary of Anne Frank," March 24-27; and "Hair," April 21-24.

Those loving music and dance can look forward to: the popular "Colors of Christmas" on Dec. 5; a dance showcase, April 29-30 and the Spring Music Concert, May 1.

“Midland is proud to be one of the few places in the area to make live music, theatre, and dance performances available to the community on a regular basis. We also work to offer affordable arts classes for kids in the community,” said Anne Sorensen-Wang, MU director of performing arts.

As for the visual arts, Kimmel Art Gallery on the Midland University campus shows student art exhibitions and guest artist exhibitions throughout the year.

Fremont Area Art Association

The Fremont Area Art Association brings a colorful assortment of visual arts opportunities for guests at Gallery 92 West in downtown Fremont.

The association showcases national and regional exhibits along with many featuring local artists. Exhibits are free and open to the public.

Each year, the art association hosts the Sheldon Statewide Exhibit, designed to bring quality art to communities across the state. Since it started in 1987, the Sheldon program has taken exhibitions to 24 communities, reaching 360,000 people.

This year, the Fremont gallery is hosting a selection of the Saint John’s Bible prints. A team of artists and scholars have combined the ancient techniques of calligraphy and artwork, called illumination, to create these works of art.

has three print exhibitions, one of which is coming to the gallery for a month-long display in October.

Throughout the years, the art association also has provided a place where local artists of all ages can display their works, which include paintings, drawings, photography, pottery, sculpture, textiles and other media.

FAAA Executive Director Angie Olson describes Gallery 92 West as a state-of-the-art building, which offers a great opportunity for guests to see what’s happening in the art scene in Fremont. Works are displayed in the Hinds and Dugan galleries within the FAAA building on 92 W. Sixth St.

Gallery 92 West fosters further art appreciation through artists’ receptions, gallery talks and monthly luncheons. Programs are designed to help visitors of all ages and backgrounds feel welcome, comfortable and equipped to engage with art.

Shoppers may want to browse through the Art Emporium, which is filled with curated, unique pieces, handmade by local, member artists.

Those who’d like to create their own artwork have opportunities, too. Open Studio Days and monthly demonstrations during Try-It-Tuesday sessions are designed to spark imagination and foster friendships.

The art association encourages the public to follow FAAA on Facebook and Instagram and those who want more information are invited to visit: gallery-92west.org or call 402-721-7779.

As the COVID-19 pandemic subsides, the art association looks forward to providing an increasing number of opportunities for those eager to engage more fully in artist endeavors and activities.

“Gallery 92 West inspires creativity in and around Fremont,” Olson said. “We’ve worked really hard on our organization and we appreciate the chance to share it whenever we can.”

Fremont Opera House

Built in 1888, the stately Fremont Opera House is a local landmark that even withstood the 1976 blast of the former Hotel Pathfinder, once located nearby.

Moreover, the opera house — listed on the National Register of Historic Places — is a place where audiences have enjoyed a variety of musical and dramatic performances for decades.

Two outdoor concerts are planned during the summer of 2021. The Big Red Sam show is set for 7 p.m. July 23.

During this show, Sam Ferguson combines music, comedy and audience participation with Husker flare. Ferguson, who lives in Loup City, plays his red piano and sings popular music — rock, pop and country.

“He’ll be a lot of fun,” said Lee Meyer, FOH executive director. “He plays the piano and he sings songs and the crowd sings with him.”

Ferguson last appeared at the opera house in 2019. Meyer said attendees enjoyed him and had a great time.

The Mark Vyhlidal Band will perform on 4 p.m. Aug. 15. The Vyhlidal Band plays waltzes, polkas, 1950s and 1960s tunes and country.

Meyer said the Vyhlidal Band was a hit during a performance last fall.

“It was so fun,” Meyer said. “We were in the parking lot and people started to get up and dance. We had little kids dancing and older folks and it was really cute.”

Guests can bring their chairs to both performances set to take place in the parking lot. As people continue to receive vaccinations and the number of COVID-19 cases continues to decrease, the opera house board hopes to provide entertainment indoors starting in the fall.

“We will still be careful and social distance, but we are planning on opening in September and we’re excited,” Meyer said.

Elvis Tribute Artist Joseph Hall is set to perform in September.

“We will have other professionals come in for our season as well,” Meyer said.

Typically, the opera house hosts four or five shows a season, featuring a variety of performers.

Some have staged musical tributes to the 1950s. String quartets and a saxophone group have performed as well.

“We usually have a variety of music for different tastes and for all different ages,” Meyer said. “We try to please everybody and make everybody want to come and see what we have to offer.”

The opera house showcases community performances.

Throughout the years, the opera house has hosted various productions. One was a version of Charles Dickens’ “A Christmas Carol,” in which actors — dressed in 1940s costumes — portrayed folks staging a show in a studio during the “Golden Age of Radio.”

In 2017, the opera house hosted a stage version of “A Charlie Brown Christmas” — the story of a boy who just wants to find the true meaning of the holiday.

“We’re talking about bringing that back, actually, because it was so popular,” Meyer said.

A 1950s murder mystery proved popular, as well, and the opera house has been the site of numerous well-known comedies including “Moon Over Buffalo” and “Arsenic and Old Lace” and melodramas.

“We do a lot of community plays that anybody can come and be part of,” Meyer said. “We’re planning on doing that again as well.”

Last year, the opera house also began having luncheons.

“We have people from the community come and entertain and we have a lovely, small luncheon and we have those once a

The opera house also offers a facility members of the public can rent for activities such as birthday parties, wedding receptions and other occasions.

Meyer believes people can benefit by visiting the historic building and enjoy affordable entertainment.

"We try to keep our entertainment at a nominal price so anybody can come see it," Meyer said.

The Digg Site

In 2009, Fremonter Stacy Heatherly founded the Digg Site, a nonprofit organization that focuses on educating youth on all processes of filmmaking.

She then started the Eastern Nebraska Film Office in Fremont to provide students a way to gain practical experience.

Heatherly worked with City of Fremont leadership to create the only officially prepared film incentive program that exists in Nebraska. Getting the film incentive program passed by the city council was a key turning point that made it possible to bring several film productions to Fremont.

"We've had interns and students on every film that's come," she said.

Heatherly said Fremont has a rich entertainment history.

"From what I understand, there were several theaters at one time and it was a big entertainment hub for a really long time," Heatherly said.

'The Fremont Gang Comedy'

The Empress Theater was built in 1915.

Fremont Daily Tribune articles tell how in 1939, Bill Mack, manager of the Empress, hired Hollywood film director Melton Barker to film a comedy. Barker went from town to town, making basically the same film.

As with other towns, a casting call went out for kids and the film was shot locally. The film called, "The Fremont Gang Comedy," featured 130 children, ages 3 to 12. This film, which depicts a little boy defeating some kidnappers, premiered on Dec. 9, 1939, at the Empress.

It received good reviews.

Benjamin Nye

Fremont also is the birthplace of Benjamin Emmet Nye, Sr., born Jan. 12, 1907. Nye was an American makeup artist for the Hollywood film industry from the 1930s to the 1980s.

Nye worked on more than 500 films for 20th Century Fox, including "Gone with the Wind," "Miracle on 34th Street," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "The King and I" and "Planet of the Apes." He started the Ben Nye Makeup Company in 1967. Nye was 79 when he died Jan. 9, 1986.

Benjamin Nye applies makeup on set in Hollywood. Nye worked as a makeup artist for more than 500 films including "Gone with the Wind."

Actor Robert Taylor

Fremont also was one of the towns where Hollywood actor Robert Taylor lived during his early life. Born Spangler Arlington Brugh, he later went to California where Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer changed his name.

Taylor

One of the most popular leading men of his time, Taylor starred in many films, including: "Magnificent Obsession," "A Yank at Oxford," "Waterloo Bridge," and "Bataan." A chain smoker, Taylor was 57 when he died of lung cancer in 1969.

Actress Marg Helgenberger

Born in Fremont in 1958, actress Marg Helgenberger grew up in North Bend. She is perhaps best known for her TV role as a crime scene investigator on "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation." Before that, she won an Emmy for her portrayal as a prostitute in the TV series China Beach in 1988. On the silver screen, she portrays a chemical exposure victim in the movie "Erin Brockovich" starring Julia Roberts.

'Slipping Into Darkness'

In 1987, the movie "Slipping Into Darkness," (the original title was "Born to Lose") was filmed in Fremont. Filming locations included: the stairwell of the Dodge County Courthouse, Ridge Cemetery, Louis E. May Museum and the Turner House. One of the co-producers, Don Schain, went on to produce the "High School Musical" series for the Disney Channel. Schain died in 2015 at age 74.

RECENT FILMS

Filming that has taken place in Fremont in recent years includes:

■ “My Lottery Dream Home,” Season 2, Episode 11 (HGTV) — A woman wins the lottery and wants to buy the home of her dreams in Nebraska. It was filmed at Woodcliff in 2015, Heatherly said. The show aired in 2017.

■ “It Snows All the Time” — Brett Cullen (Batman’s dad in “Joker” 2018) appears in this film based on the true story of Omaha actor Erich Hover whose dad was diagnosed with frontotemporal dementia, similar to Alzheimer’s disease. Filming took place at the Platte River at Hormel Park. The film, released in 2016, is in distribution, Heatherly said.

■ “12 Days of Giving” — This was filmed in Fremont and Omaha in February 2017 and aired that December on the Uptv cable network. Ashley Jones and David Blue star in this movie about a man who wins a small fortune and decides to share his winnings with people in a small town.

■ “La Flamme Rouge” — Filmed in Fremont and Omaha in 2019, the movie stars Clint Howard, younger brother of Ron Howard, and Balthazar Getty. The movie premiered with a live screening recently as part of the Omaha Film Festival. The movie involves a retired cycling champion who has nightmarish dream of murder and assassins with only a renegade detective to help him.

Heatherly also said parts of a Jonas Brothers music video also were shot in the Fremont area in 2017.

TRIBUNE FILES

As crew members look on, a scene from “It Snows All The Time” is filmed Tuesday in the Platte River near Hormel Park.

Films were slated to be filmed in Fremont in 2020. The hope is that filming will take place in 2021 or 2022. They include:

■ “I Am A Man” — This film is the story of Chief Standing Bear, a Ponca leader and Native American civil rights leader in the 1880s. The film has a $19 million budget.

■ “Bright Eyes” — A Native American film about Susette La Flesche, later Susette LaFlesche Tibbles and also called Inshata Theumba, meaning “Bright Eyes” (1854-1903).

She was a well-known Native American writer, lecturer, interpreter, and a progressive who was a spokesperson for Native American rights. In 1983, she was inducted into the Nebraska Hall of Fame.

Filming for this movie is set to take place in the Fremont area.

■ “The Picture of Daria Gray”

— Kirk Zeller of Ravenna is the producer. The film is about a woman who has her portrait painted. She doesn’t seem to age, but notices the portrait changes, revealing her age.

■ “Finding Aloha” — This is about a student who quits college and moves to Hawaii, then returns to finish her education. “It’s a really beautiful story,” Heatherly said. Zeller is the producer of this film as well.

Visitors to Fremont may enjoy stopping by locations where the films have been made. They can watch the movie, spot the locations and then have their photo taken in these spots.

“If you watch ‘12 Days of Giving,’ you can spot several locations around Fremont really easily,” Heatherly said.

In the meantime, Fremont remains a place with a history and future of entertainment. Heatherly said Marianne Simmons, Richard Rader and the late John Reeves have been instrumental in keeping the history of entertainment alive in Fremont through historical photos and records.

And there’s more entertainment history to be made.

Filming for this movie is set to take place in the Fremont area.

Fun on the horizon

Outdoor activities
abound at parks, camps in the
Fremont area

NOAH JOHNSON
Fremont Tribune

Spring has finally arrived after a bitter winter overshadowed by the COVID-19 pandemic.

With warmer weather on the way, now is the perfect time to soak up the sun and experience some of area's marquee attractions. Whether looking to visit the pool with your family or take a soaring adventure across thousands of feet of zip line sources, there are plenty of opportunities to make your vacation or weekend trip one to remember.

Fremont

The Fremont Parks and Recreation Department has a full slate of outdoor activities available for the public following a hiatus brought forward by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Recreation Superintendent Nate Schwanke said Ronin Pool and Splash Station are slated to open on May 31. Both attractions were closed for the 2020 season due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Schwanke said the attraction typically brings in visitors from across the area, including Omaha.

"We have a wide variety of neighborhood parks that have splash pads as well," he said. "I think those are really nice attractions for our community over the summer on those long, hot days."

Popularity among Fremont's water attractions has continued to trend up, according to Schwanke. He attributed the continued interest to the number of different opportunities the city provides to its residents.

Those outdoor water activities aren't just limited to the Splash Station and Ronin Pool, either. Fremont offers five Splash Pads at parks across the city. The accessible alternative is open to children of all ages and uses sensors to activate water features at each unique location.

"It's easy for kids of all ages to go and play and they're in neighborhood parks," Schwanke said. "So, moms don't have to take their kids and load everything up to go to the waterpark. They can just go down the street to the regular park and monitor play with their kids."

The City of Fremont Parks Department also offers several programs for families who wish to enroll in swimming lessons.

Those programs include:

Kinder Swim

■ The $30 program for 3- and 4-year old children takes place at the Splash Station. Registration for Session 1 runs from 9:30-10:30 a.m. on June 5 at the Splash Station. Session 2 registration runs from 9:30-10:30 a.m. July 3 at the Splash Station.

Learn to Swim

■ The $40 program is for children at least 5 years old or must be a graduate of Kinder Swim. Session 1, which runs from June 21 to July 2 at the Splash Station, opens registration from 9:30-10:30 a.m. on June 12. Session 2, which runs from July 19-30, opens registration between 9:30-10:30 a.m. July 10.

involved in other summer activities including:

Park Play

■ The nine-week program, starting June 1, costs $150 per child before April 23 and $165 per child starting April 24. Children between from kindergarten through sixth grade will meet at Clemmons, Milliken and Ronin parks. Between 120 and 130 kids take part in a typical year. The fee includes a T-shirt and all in-town, off-the-park activities. Additional fees will be charged for out-of-town field trips.

Lil' Sluggers

■ This is coed T-ball league is for children ages 4 and 5 who have not been to kindergarten. The cost for registration is $40 if registered by April 23 for an eight-week schedule. The fee is $55 if registered after that time. Children will meet once a week for a 15- to Games will be in the evenings. Typically, about 100 kids participate each year.

While COVID-19 forced the parks department to close the door on its summer programming last year, Schwanke said he is confident the city can provide a safe environment for kids to have fun this year.

"We really need to get back to having some sense of normalcy," he said. "Not having anything for last summer for kids really, really hurt. That's been our main driving force just to do whatever we can on our end to try and get activities back into the community for kids."

With a full slate of activities on top for the coming months, Schwanke said there is plenty for families to look forward to.

"The biggest thing I look forward to is just hoping that we can do what we can to make sure that we give kids an experience over the summer," he said.

Nickerson

Located just 10 minutes from Nickerson is an exciting, high-flying zip line experience ready to make its return this spring.

The Soaring Hawk Zip Line Tour opened in March 2018 at Camp Crossed Arrows near Nickerson. The $200,000 project features five lines that send zippers over the wooded ravines and rolling hills of the Elkhorn River valley north of Fremont.

The zip line tour was the first multiline course in the state and has seen a steady stream of visitors up until the COVID-19 pandemic. Between all five lines of the course, which steadily increase in height, riders can zip across more than 2,000 feet of Nebraska scenery.

Rob Anderson, challenge course manager for the Girl Scouts Spirit of Nebraska Council, said the experience takes around two hours on average.

"It is a neat way to experience all the different parts of the camp," he said.

Like many businesses, Anderson said the tour lost momentum during the past year due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"We completely shut down," he said. "We didn't come back until the latter part of last summer when we developed some COVID-friendly procedures to keep both participants and our staff safe."

Reopening last summer provided a chance for the tour to get back on its feet, but Anderson said traffic was slow throughout the season. Now, he said Soaring Hawk is looking to regain its momentum this summer.

"We're hoping to regain our momentum and really get things going again this year," he said. "Full speed."

Anderson said the course was meant to ease people into ziplining. He said other ziplining platforms use 80-foot platforms as takeoff points. At Soaring Hawk, the land is used to ease riders from platform to platform.

"I purposely made it so that it is user friendly for those people who are a little hesitant," he said. "You build on that experience as you go."

He said those same people who were initially hesitant quickly find themselves more confident in themselves as the course progresses. That, along with a course that Anderson said was "overbuilt for safety," makes for an exciting new experience for first-time zippers.

"It's extremely satisfying and we can see these people come out and expand their comfort zone a little bit," he said. "That's what we're all about. That's what we strive for and we enjoy that as instructors."

Shannon Peterson, marketing director for Girl Scouts Spirit of Nebraska, said the introduction of the Soaring Hawk Zip Line Tour has helped bring new tourism to Camp Crossed Arrows.

"It's a professionally pulled together zipline tour, so that's pretty exciting and exhilarating," she said. "More and more people will continue to use it and then see the other amenities our camps have and either get their girls involved with Girl Scouts or try out some of our other amenities."

As for the upcoming season, Peterson said she is ready to see girls return to camps and tourists begin experiencing the sights and experiences Camp Crossed Arrows has to offer.

"It was such a hard summer without camps and without the zip line tour," she said. "I think people are going to be really excited to get out and do things."

Camp Fontanelle

There is plenty to look forward to for children and families at Camp Fontanelle during the course of the summer and fall season.

Summer camp is set to kick off in just over two months and newly appointed Site Director Ryan Siver is ready to bring back safe summer programming for kids across the area.

Camp Fontanelle is just four miles from Nickerson.

The camp allows for several camping options for kids throughout the summer, including day camp and residential camp. Siver said families can also participate in virtual camp if they don't feel safe returning to in-person programming yet.

"I think it's just the excitement of being able to host in-person camps again this summer with all the things we've learned in the past year to make sure everything's safe," Siver said. "I'm just really, really excited to be starting something new."

Siver said the camp also plans to host its corn maze and pumpkin patch during the coming eight-week fall season.

As a parent of four children, Siver said he is ready to have his children be given the opportunity to make new friends during the course of summer camps. He said that sentiment is true among many parents.

"I think there's a lot of parents who are ready, as long as it is done safely, to go back to having a normal summer of activities," he said. "I think a lot of it will be based on policies and procedures enacted so that the parents know that the activities they are doing are safe."

Should parents have any concerns about procedures implemented at the camp, Siver said to simply call and staff will be happy to walk them through current protocols and answer any questions.

"I think that's the important thing, that parents can just see how we do it and be able to talk with us about all those things and answer their questions," he said. "I think that's really important."

Siver officially stepped into the role of site director on April 1. In the short time that he's been in the position, the welcome from the community and camp has been strong.

"I'm just really excited and really looking forward to getting to work and getting to know the people around here and just making those relationships and those connections with people who have lived here for a long time."

Find your perfect PLACE

Fremont Lakes SRA offers high-energy activity and peaceful repose

Tribune Staff

Fremont Lakes State Recreation Area is a popular destination for boaters, campers, swimmers and fishing enthusiasts where they can enjoy the excitement and simple pleasures of the great outdoors.

Purchased in parcels of land by the state in the 1920s and 1930s, the recreation area features 20 man-made lakes just west of Fremont.

Each year, an estimated 800,000 people come to the area, which consists of 40 land and 300 water acres.

There are many reasons why the park is visited by so many people.

Blue water sparkles in the sunshine here. Wildlife — from deer to ducks — peruse this place — a favorite among hikers, bird-watchers and photographers.

Campers can find solace here, while those wanting a little more adventure can go jet skiing or waterskiing.

The lakes have a place for every person of every activity level — from areas for high-energy fun to those that provide a quieter place of repose.

The type of area people visit can differ each time they come to the lakes — depending on whether they want to go water skiing, tubing or wakeboarding — or sit around a campfire and relax.

There are other activities, too, like sand volleyball and disc golf, and amenities, such as a small building on Lake 16 that can be rented for weddings, meetings and family reunions.

There are sand beaches for swimming along with amenities for picnicking and day use.

A trip to the lakes can be a learning experience as well.

Throughout the week during the summer, visitors can get involved in naturalist programs. Such programs can involve: photography, archery, learning how to fish, or how to cook in a cast iron pot over an open fire. There are programs — like one involving how to identify animal tracks — for kids.

To learn about programming, call the office at 402-727-2922.

The lakes have other offerings.

For instance, hungry visitors — who don't want to cook for themselves — can stop by the Tow Line Lakeside Grill.

Park permits are good from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31. For an updated cost for a permit or people ages 16 and older who are in need of a fishing permit, folks are asked to visit the website www.outdoor-nebraska.gov for costs and fishing regulations. Questions can also be answered by visiting the office at the lakes.

Typical fish stocked at the lakes include: bluegill, catfish, bass and crappie. Trout is stocked in the fall and spring on Lake No. 2.

A free park entry and fishing day is usually held some time in mid-May. Visitors are not required to have a fishing license or a park permit statewide on that day.

A calendar of events for state recreation areas along with places to make reservations for campsites is available on the www.outdoor-nebraska.gov website.

When it comes to catching some fish, Daryl Bauer said it's hard to beat just a bobber and a worm.

"Just start on a nice spring afternoon, find a sunny spot where the water's warming up a little bit," he said, "and you never know what you might catch."

Within Dodge County, anglers who are just getting started or have years of experience have multiple opportunities for casting a line.

Near Fremont, the Fremont

Lakes State Recreation Area provides 20 sandpits for public fishing near the Platte River. Johnson Lake in east Fremont also allows for fishing.

Further north, the Dead Timber SRA and Powder Horn State Wildlife Management Area allow for fishing near the Elkhorn River. The City of Hooper also provides public fishing opportunities at Hooper Old Lake.

Additionally, private fishing opportunities are available at Fremont, Ridgewood, Rainbow, Leisure and Summer Haven lakes near the Platte River.

Bauer, who is fisheries outreach program manager for the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission, has more than 30 years of experience with the commission and has held his position for more than a decade.

While the fishing spots in Dodge County have remained constant, Bauer said he's seen continued progress specifically with the Fremont Lakes on fisheries management activities to improve water quality and opportunities.

"The future's bright," he said. "We've got some good fishing opportunities, and we're going to continue to have some, and as we recover from some of the flood damage, there'll be some even better fishing in the years coming up."

For beginning fishers, Bauer recommended starting at the Fremont Lakes, which he said has a variety of species, including panfish, bluegills, crappies, largemouth bass and channel catfish.

"Those are common in all of the sandpits and all of the waters we have around the state, but especially in the eastern third of Nebraska," he said.

In mid-March, Fremont SRA Lake #2 was stocked with 5,000 rainbow trout by the Nebraska Game and Parks. Several fishing areas in Dodge County are stocked in both the spring and fall.

The Fremont Lakes State Recreation Area provides for public fishing at 20 lakes along the Platte River.

During the wintertime, the lakes also provide an area for ice fishing. But Bauer said it's important to remember that the sand-pits still have groundwater flow and that the ice can be thinner in areas like the west end.

"That's where the groundwater flow is coming from," he said. "So certainly you can ice fish in those waters, but just make sure of the ice conditions, make sure it's safe."

The Nebraska Game and Parks has a website at outdoornebraska.gov/fishing, which has information available for fishers of all skill levels.

"If they're beginners, there's some resources on our webpage that'll give you an idea of gear, species of fish, good locations to look for, good baits to use, all of that," Bauer said. "It just depends on the species of fish that you're fishing for and the time of year."

The website also includes information on a map of family-friendly fishing waters in the state, Bauer said.

"You can also see our fishing guide, which lists the rules and regulations every year, and then we have a fishing forecast we produce every year, too," he said. "So you can look at that and get an idea of what some of the best spots to fish this year are going to be."

Fishers can also find fishing limits, which Bauer said depends on the type of fish. For example, he said fishers won't have to worry about length limits on smaller fish like bluegill.

"You've just got to worry about daily bag limits and things like that," he said. "But with largemouth bass, you will have to have something to measure the fish, because we do have length limits on them."

Bauer said anglers in Dodge County have several fishing organizations with the state they can join, including the Cornhusker Fly Fishers, Trout Unlimited, Nebraska Walleye Association and Nebraska Bass Federation.

"If you're hooked on fishing, a great way to learn more about it is to join one of those clubs, meet some people," he said. "It's also a great way to get involved and give back to the sport, too."

For those near Fremont, opportunities include Fremont Anglers Club, Fremont Chapter of Izaak

Walton, Fremont Family YMCA Hazel R. Keene Lodge and Rod and Gun Club.

Another organization based out of Fremont is the Fremont Airboat Club, which formed in the late 1950s and early 1960s. The club currently has 43 members, President Michael Ireland said.

"As a club, we promote airboating and conservation, of course," he said. "We've also offered and have had boater safety courses out there."

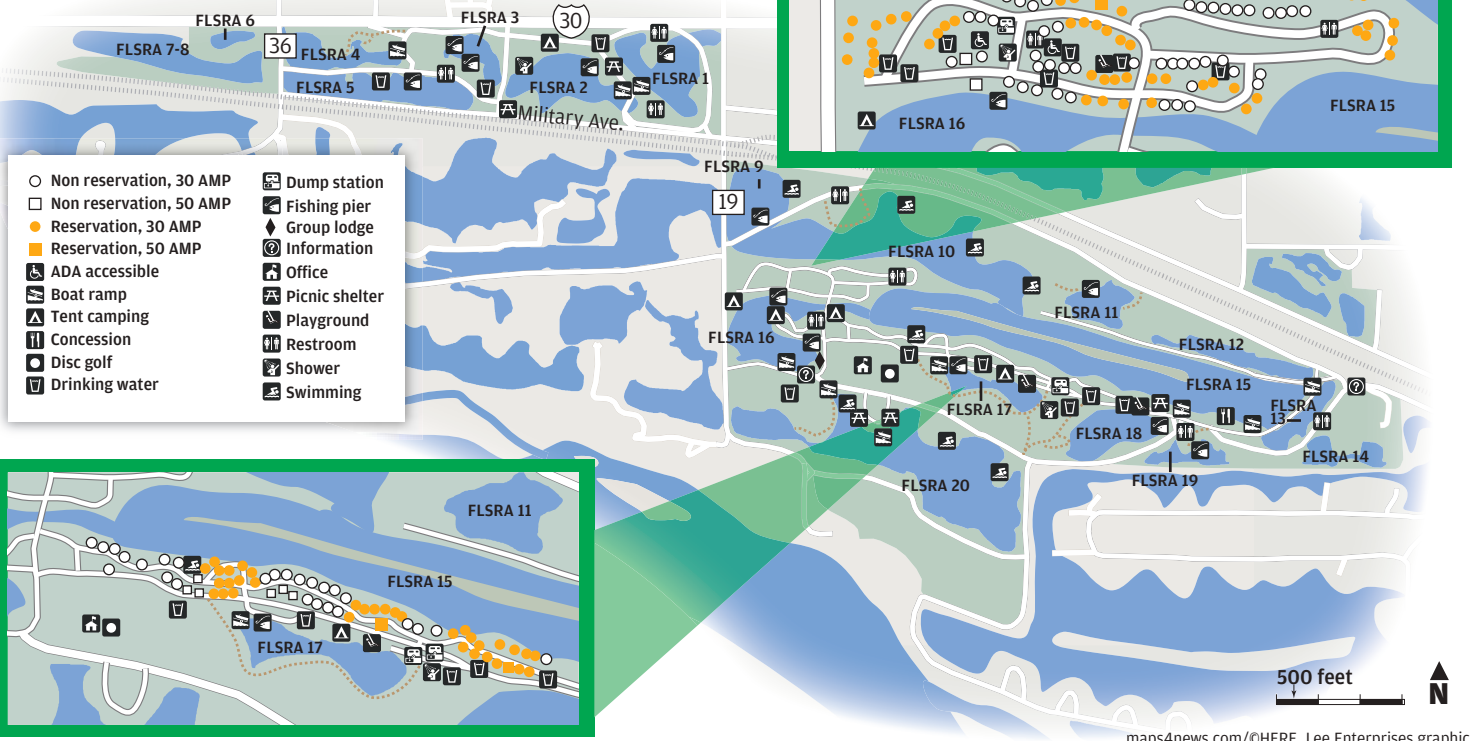

Ireland has been with the nonprofit for seven years, serving as president for the last two. The Fremont Airboat Club typically had an annual catfish tournament for its members.

"We opened it up to the public last year, and it was really a good turnout,” Ireland said. “We plan on doing that, but in honoring [long-time member] John Ehlers with that also every year from now on.”

The public tournament, held in August 2020, acted as a fundraiser for the group as participants hit the Platte River for catfish.

“The Platte River is just so full of different catfish,” Ireland said. “You have the opportunity to catch quite a few big fish in that river, with blues, flatheads and channels out in that river.”

With Dead Timber’s proximity to the Elkhorn River, Ireland also recommended the location as a good fishing spot for catfish.

Dead Timber, which has experienced changes throughout the years due to flooding, is undergoing a redevelopment project by the Nebraska Game and Parks and Vireo, an Omaha-based landscape architect firm.

In late March, a virtual meeting took place to share the design concepts with the public, go over the different options available and take feedback on what visitors would like to see.

While Hormel Park near Fremont used to provide boat access to the Platte River, Ireland said the ramp was closed after the spring 2019 flooding.

“So finding a place to put your boat in the water, usually you have to join an organization or have a friend that has a ramp you can put it in and out of,” he said. “That was a big loss for airboaters here in our region, when Hormel Park was taken out.”

Like Bauer, Ireland recommended people to access the current year’s fishing and boating guide if they’re interested in starting fishing, as well as YouTube tutorials.

“Especially if you’re trying to get your kids into it, they have a kids’ day at Lake 3 every year,” he said. “They stock that with fish for them to catch, and they give away fishing poles, and tackle boxes.”

Ireland also said to take caution with ice fishing. As he fishes during the winter every year, he said he won’t go out on ice unless it’s at least 4 inches thick.

When arriving at a lake to ice fish, Ireland said he’ll often ask other anglers on the lake if a corner is safe to walk on.

“Most likely the guys that are fishing those lakes will tell you,

Fremont Airboat Club Tournament fish fry.

“Don’t go over there, there’s a spring there,” he said. “The ice might be 6 inches where you’re standing now, but over there it might only be 2 inches.”

With Hooper Old Lake, City Clerk Roxanne Meyer said the popular fishing spot recently saw a $42,000 renovation in 2008 with the help of several grants and the Nebraska Game and Parks.

“They made it deeper and really dredged it out, cleaned it out and set some natural habitat down in the middle, like some trees,” she said. “They just set that down in there for the fish habitat.”

The Hooper Parks and Recreation Department provides guidance for stocking the lake and placed a sign nearby on limits for fishing.

“We have three little jetties that they can go out on and fish off of, or just any of the shoreline,” Meyer said. “No swimming is allowed because there’s some jagged edges and stuff like that.”

Although swimming is prohibited, Meyer said non-motorized boats are also allowed on the lake, which includes a small picnic shelter.

Located right next to Hooper Park, Elkhorn Valley Golf Club and Hooper Swimming Pool, Hooper

Old Lake has become a popular spot for children and families.

“We see little kids down there all the time, and it’s really nice to see a small group, and they’ve all got their fishing poles and their little tackle boxes and they’re on their bikes,” Meyer said. “And you’ll see parents with real little ones. It’s a great family gathering, and it’s right here in town.”

Having watched her granddaughter skipping home after a fishing session with her son, Meyer said the lake is a great learning experience for children.

“Little kids don’t last very long at one thing, so it’s just kind of nice to be able to go down there maybe for a half an hour,” she said. “Because you know they’re going to be off and wanting to do something else, so it’s just perfect.”

As many beginning fishers can get confused and overwhelmed with tackle and gear, Bauer said the most important part is to just have fun.

“Just because you’re sitting on a bank with a bobber and a worm or even a cane pole doesn’t make you any less of an angler than the guy with the $50,000 boat and all the gear,” he said. “It’s all fishing, it’s all good, so find what you like to do and do it and get out there.”

A guide to fishing at Fremont Lakes State Recreation Area

There are several species of fish found in the Fremont Lakes State Recreation Area. Be sure to check with the park office to find out where the best spots are.

Gas-powered boating on Victory Lake and Lake No. 20 only; other lakes electric motor and non-powered boats allowed. Accessible piers. Modern and primitive camping.

Bullhead

A chubby, scaleless fish having an adipose fin, 8 barbels (those under mouth black in color) that are used to locate food, and a slight notch on the rear margin of the tail. Many anglers have the misconception that the whiskers (barbels) can sting them. What has to be avoided are the hard spines (one in the dorsal fin and one in each pectoral fin) that can inflict a puncture wound if the fish is mishandled. Bullheads will overpopulate and compete with other fish if predators are lacking. When it becomes overpopulated, its bottom-feeding activity stirs up bottom sediments – making the water muddy. Primarily feeds on immature aquatic insects, small crustaceans, plant material and an occasional small fish. Often caught by anglers.

Bluegill

A flat, slab-sided fish with a rather smallmouth. Pectoral fin is pointed and relatively long; gill cover tab dark colored to edge. Dark spot at the rear base of the dorsal fin. Insects are the predominant food item, often captured at the surface of the water, followed by small crustaceans, small fish, and snails; sometimes algae if animal food is scarce. When spawning, many nests (roundish depressions on the bottom) are located close together in small, shallow-water areas (beds). Excellent prey fish for largemouth bass, particularly in farm ponds. Can hybridize with green sunfish.

Common Carp

A heavy-bodied fish with long dorsal fin, two barbels (each corner of mouth) and a stout, saw-toothed spine at front of both dorsal and anal fins. A native of Asia that was brought to Europe and then to the United States and stocked widely by various state fish commissions. They are omnivorous, consuming a variety of animal and plant material; primarily feed on the bottom but will also suck in objects floating on the surface. Their aggressive feeding activities (uprooting plants and roiling bottom sediments) can make the water very muddy. There is a genetic variation called the mirror carp that differs only by having over-enlarged scales or an uneven scale pattern, or no scales.

Channel Catfish

An olive-brown or slate-blue, scaleless fish having dark spots (especially on small fish), an adipose fin, 8 barbels that are used to locate food, and a deeply forked tail. Its anal fin has 24-29 rays with a rounded margin. Breeding males become dark blue and are often misidentified as blue catfish. Many anglers are mistaken by thinking they can be stung by the whiskers (barbels). What they have to avoid are the hard spines (one in the dorsal fin and one in each pectoral fin) that can inflict a puncture wound if the fish is mishandled. Primarily bottom-feeder, consuming living or dead items. Diet is varied and includes fish, crayfish, insects, mollusks, and plant material. One of the top five commonly sought-after sport fish in the state.

Crappie

Silvery fish with irregularly arranged black speckles and blotches on sides and usually 7 or 8 spines in the dorsal fin. Spawning males become almost entirely black. They are less tolerant of turbidity and siltation than white crappie. Aquatic insects and large zooplankton compose a larger portion of the diet of black crappie than white crappie. They usually are heavier at any given length than white crappie. They can become overpopulated if predator populations are low. Crappies (black and white combined) are one of the top 5 commonly sought-after sport fish.

Largemouth Bass

Torpedo-shaped body with upper jaw extending beyond rear margin of eye and dorsal fin almost divided. Midside generally has a broad, continuous stripe with lower side either lacking dark spots or having dark spots that are irregularly arranged. It is an important predator, especially in small waters, and thrives in warm, moderately clear waters having little or no current. Young primarily feed on small crustaceans (mostly water fleas), insects, and small fish; whereas, adults primarily feed on fish, crayfish, and large insects, along with almost any other animal that swims or falls into the water. It is one of the top 5 commonly sought-after sport fish.

Rainbow Trout (Lake No. 2 – seasonally)

Non-native fish that requires cold (less than 70 degrees), well-oxygenated water. It tolerates slightly higher temperatures than other trout. It is speckled with small black spots on sides (no orange or reddish spots), back, and tail fin which is slightly forked. Sides also have a broad pinkish or red stripe. It also has small scales, an adipose fin on the midline of the back near the tail, and a small, triangular-shaped axillary process at the upper end of the pelvic fin. The bulk of its diet consists of aquatic and terrestrial insects, amphipods, crayfish, and small fish. It spawns from early winter to late spring, depending on genetic strain and availability of clean, gravelly riffles in streams. Readily caught by anglers.

Muskellunge (Lake No. 20)

Large, tubular-shaped, non-native fish having a single dorsal fin near the forked tail, duck-billed-shaped snout, large mouth with many sharp teeth, and 6 or more pores on each side of the lower jaw's underside. Both the gill cover and cheek are scaled on their upper halves. It has been introduced as an additional large predator and survives better than northern pike in S.E. Nebraska reservoirs. It is usually "managed" to provide a trophy fishery.

DEAD TIMBER RECREATION AREA AND POWDERHORN WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT AREA

227 County Road & 12 Blvd

A few miles north of Scribner on Highway 275, are Dead Timber State Recreation Area and the adjoining Powderhorn Wildlife Management Area, which provides an ideal setting for hunting in various seasons. Dead Timber is a 200-acre area with newly remodeled facilities for camping, fishing, and hiking. The name Dead Timber is believed to have first been used by Native Americans after a fire in the region left many dead trees. Old-timers say that the Indians camped near the Elkhorn River behind the high bluffs during the winter. When summer came they traveled several miles to the northwest to camp along a river lake. During one of their winter encampments, the story goes, a fire got out of hand and burned all the timber in the area. Modern campers at Dead Timber will find electrical hookups, water, picnic shelters, and fireplaces. Dead Timber offers peaceful seclusion for an afternoon or a weekend. A state park permit is required.

Downtown Fremont HAS IT ALL

“There really is something for everyone” in historic district

Tribune Staff

Fremont’s roots are anchored in its Historic Downtown and it is as vibrant as it was when the city was first established in 1856.

In 2018, Fremont’s Main Street was included on a USA Today list of “charming Main Streets” across the country. The list featured a Main Street from each state in the country, highlighting Fremont’s main street as the representative for Nebraska.

As pointed out by the USA Today entry—which makes mention of longtime local retailer Sampter’s and recently opened Milady Coffeehouse—much of Downtown Fremont’s charm can be found in the melding of preserved history and constant efforts to grow and evolve the area with cutting-edge businesses and events.

While some people make the trip to downtown looking for a piece of the past at one of the many antique shops that have led to the area being dubbed “North-east Nebraska’s Antique Capital”, some will also browse through the numerous boutiques and shops.

Downtown Fremont also serves as a spot for entertainment, events, bars, restaurants and live music—while also attracting local residents for more day-to-day services like banks, legal services, real estate, auto and home repair, counseling and many other needed services.

There are over 15 restaurants and bars downtown.

“I think it’s that balance that makes Downtown Fremont so unique,” Shannon Mullen, Fremont & Dodge County Convention and Visitors Bureau Director, said. “Not only do we have a bustling retail and entertainment industry, but we also have all these great service-based businesses that bring it all together.”

Many longtime Fremont residents have many fond memories of heading downtown for food, fun and any number of the annual events held in the area but also are drawn in by the area’s charm. It is easy to see this through people’s passion to preserve the district’s history while also adding new amenities and events to move downtown into the future.

Historic Downtown’s tallest structure, the 505 Building, was purchased in 2019 with plans to renovate the upper floors into housing with commercial/dining on the main floor and basement.

Improvements have been spurred by a variety of entities including MainStreet of Fremont, the Business Improvement District Board, and local business owners and residents who all want to simultaneously preserve and improve Downtown Fremont.

Halloween Hysteria

Many of MainStreet of Fremont's efforts can be seen and experienced throughout the summer months as the organization will again hang baskets of pink petunias on light poles throughout the district on Memorial Day, and host its annual Concert In The Park Series which brings thousands to John C. Fremont

John C. Fremont Days parade

Park to enjoy music, food and fun every Thursday throughout the month of June.

The park—at 9th and Broad Street—also serves as the home of John C. Fremont Days which celebrates the city's founding with a weekend of music, history, food and an annual parade. This festival takes place annually during the second full weekend in July at various locations throughout the city.

Throughout the summer the area also hosts the Fremont Artisan Market and the weekly Memory Farmers Market which supports the Fremont Area Alzheimer's Collaboration and provides local farmers an opportunity to sell their produce every Thursday in the parking lot at Fifth and Park Avenue behind the May Brothers Building.

Concert in the Park

While summer festivals like JCF Days have been engrained in the community's consciousness, local residents have recently brought new life to old traditions and endeavored to start a few new ones over the past several years.

Those efforts include a return to Fremont's moniker as "The White Light City," which is a tradition that originally began back in the 1970s when longtime local residents Ray and Marianne Simmons took a trip to Williamsburg, Virginia.

While Ray passed away in 2002, Marianne says that during their vacation to Williamsburg her husband became enamored by white lights in the windows of buildings throughout the city — and endeavored to start a similar tradition back home.

"The lights were really simple and inexpensive, but they just created such an interesting atmosphere that Ray wanted to bring it back to Fremont," Marianne Simmons said.

When the couple returned home, Ray began contacting residents all along Military Avenue, Broad Street and Nye Avenue — encouraging them to put white lights in their windows.

Eventually, then-Mayor Donald B. "Skip" Edwards made an official proclamation, declaring Fremont "The White Light City."

In 2018, a group known as the

Now, each night when the sun falls below the horizon, Downtown Fremont lights up as white lights run along building tops throughout the area.

The newly created Fremont Fall

TRIBUNE FILES

Several pieces of artwork created by artist Anthony Deon Brown inside of Fia + Belle, 108 E. Sixth St. Fia + Belle was previously featured in the annual Nebraska Passport program presented by the Nebraska Tourism Commission.

Festival was held for the first time in 2018.

The event featured a variety of fall-themed activities for all members of the family and included the "White Light City Film Festival."

The holiday season running from early fall through the New Year is also a busy time in Downtown Fremont as people flock to the area for the annual Halloween Hysteria where children trick-or-treat at hundreds of local businesses, and the Christmas Walk event where downtown businesses offer dozens of festive events, entertainment, food and deals throughout the day.

No matter the time of year, Downtown Fremont has something for everyone to enjoy.

John C. Fremont Days has something for everyone

The three-day, family-friendly festival is packed full of entertainment

Tribune Staff

John C. Fremont Days, a three-day, family-friendly festival in Fremont, will be held this summer from July 9 to 11. It is held in John C. Fremont City Park and Clemmons Park with other events at locations around the city.

The festival features a variety of events, including a craft and vendor fair, historical tours, balloon glow, live entertainment and a two-day rodeo, culminating in a parade on Sunday.

Other events include the Little Miss Fremont Pageant, a car, truck and bike show, sporting events and youth activities.

The theme for this year's event is "Super Hometown Heroes." The festival will honor post-9/11 fallen military by hosting "Remembering Our Fallen," a traveling photographic war memorial. The memorial, with 33 Tribute Towers, also includes military who served in combat zones post-9/11, but succumbed to the invisible wounds suffered. A Tribute Tower has also been added to include our military who die in stateside or non-combat training accidents. The towers will be placed throughout John C. Fremont Park.

Clemmons Park will feature many historical reenactors, as well as Native American dance expositions.

"We have one-on-one discussions at the tents as the reenactors show whatever particular skill they may have," board president Don Cunningham said. "And they have all kinds of things, some will bake some bread, others will be working on how they worked with iron back in those days."

board member Carol Fenske said another big draw will be Remembering Our Fallen, a pictorial display at the opera house that will honor military who have died during the War on Terror.

"We're just always trying to change things up, but then we still have the regulars that everybody comes to see," she said. "Some people come to the festival one time over the weekend to get a kettle corn and a root beer, so we always keep those fan favorites."

at JCF Days, Cunningham said his personal favorite and the best for newcomers to attend is the balloon glow on Friday. The event will have up to six pilots taking to the skies in hot air balloons.

"Everybody comes out and grabs a slice of watermelon, and you spread out all across that area that the city allows us to use by Splash Station," Cunningham said. "It's just one of the most beautiful summer evening events that you can come up with. It's so much fun."

Cunningham also said the rodeo at Christensen Field on Friday and Saturday nights has proven to be a popular event with attendees.

"It just kind of depends on what they like," he said. "And everybody comes to the parade and gets wet at the end, so it's just kind of a traditional thing that we do around Fremont."

Preparations for JCF Days begin almost immediately after the previous year has finished, said Fenske, who is in charge of logistics planning for the festival's events.

"We try to get together the following week, just while everything is fresh in our heads and talk about things that we could have changed, things we could improve on, suggestions we heard from the people attending," she said. "Then we kick right into the next month and already start our meetings for the following year."

In getting ready for the event, Fenske said there is so much more that goes on behind the scenes than people realize.

"But all that coordination and then seeing it all come to surface for the weekend and people in the park are happy, and the children getting their faces painted and enjoying the parade," she said. "By the end of three days on Sunday, we're pretty darn tired, but it's so much fun."

Fenske also said she was thankful for the support from the city of Fremont and local businesses, as well as her other board members.

"Although we all each have our own portfolio and responsibilities, during the weekend, if anybody falls short or runs into a hiccup, somebody on the board is always there to help out," she said. "So it's just an amazing group of people."

Over the years, Cunningham said people have stopped him and thanked him and other board members for their work on the event.

"This is a group of people with no slackers among them, everybody has a portfolio," he said. "I really do think people are becoming more and more appreciative of the work that we put in, because they say it, and that's really gratifying and it just gives us momentum."

Private, 18 holes, Driving Range

Course Highlights

Hole 1: Par 4 (Black 372, Blue 352, White 331, Red 323, Handicap 11/9) — Try to put your tee shot down the right side of the fairway. The green opens up from there. Watch out for the greenside bunkers on your second shot and, whatever you do, you don't want to be long where you will find at least a tough chip and also bushes and out-of-bounds.

The green slopes significantly from back to front, particularly in the back right and in the front of the green.

Hole 2: Par 3 (172, 172, 153, 130, Handicap 17/17) — Check the wind direction and speed on your way to the second hole. Because of the trees around the tee, you can't judge either speed or direction. You want to avoid the bunker on the front left. A shot hit to the right side of the green must carry about 10 yards past the front of the green or it will roll back down the slope leaving a difficult chip. The green is fairly flat with some significant back right to front left slope in the back right of the green.

Hole 10

Hole 3: Par 4 (408, 408, 388, 374, Handicap 3/3) — This hole has been designated as a World-Herald Hall of Fame Hole. Your drive must be straight to avoid problems with the trees on both sides. The second shot must negotiate the Rawhide Creek, which cuts in front of the green, and avoid the bunker on the right of the green. There is significant slope running from back to front near the back right and the front of the green. Be careful with your downhill putts.

Hole 4: Par 3 (203, 180, 172, 143, Handicap 15/13) — You want to avoid the bunker on the left and be certain not to hit long over the green. The bailout is in the front right, which leaves a relatively simple uphill chip. The green slopes severely from back left to front right. Be very careful on downhill putts.

Hole 5: Par 4 (395, 395, 316, 311, Handicap 9/11) — Dense, mature trees line both sides of the fairway on this dog-leg right. It is better to miss to the left side than the right. On your second shot be mindful of the two grass bunkers in front of the green. The green is large and fairly flat, but take an extra look as you are reading the green because it does have subtle breaks that are difficult to see.

Hole 6: Par 4 (418, 392, 355, 343, Handicap 7/7) — This tough hole is a dogleg left. There is out-of-bounds on the right, but you are dead if you are in the trees on the left. Except for the longest drives, the fairway bunker is out of play. The green is well elevated and well bunkered. Anything over the green leaves a very difficult lob back onto the green.

Hole 7: Par 4 (317, 317, 302, 252, Handicap 13/15) — This is a short one. If you are long enough, you can take it over the left bunker toward the green. The carry is about 260 yards. Place your ball on the same side of the hogback as the pin location. Chipping to this green from anywhere but the front of the green is difficult. When the pin is located in the front, be careful with your downhill putts. They tend to just keep rolling.

Hole 8: Par 5 (534, 517, 483, 468, Handicap 1/1) — From the back tee a shot played toward the fairway bunker with a draw is the best play. You must also be careful of the trees on your second shot. The green is protected by a bunker and is elevated and very undulating. Shots hit to the right side of the green will roll off to the right and those hit to the back left of the green will roll off to the left. You must avoid the greenside bunker. You will find many difficult putts on this green.

Hole 9: Par 4 (402, 384, 364, 352, Handicap 5/5) — This hole was also designated as a World-Herald Hall of Fame Hole. Before its removal in 2017, a large elm tree sat in the middle of the fairway at the turn of this dogleg left. From the back tee, it is a carry of about 260 yards to where that tree once stood. The second shot must carry Paden's Pond in front of the green. Shots over the green will find the Rawhide Creek. The green is wide and shallow. It slopes from back to front.

Hole 10: Par 3 (142, 142, 140, 132, Handicap 16/14) — This is another short hole. This is a fairly large green for the short length of the hole, but two big traps and OB guard it behind the green. There is also a low area on the left side of the green leading to difficult recovery shots. The green has high points on the front left and back left, but all in all, this is a chance for a birdie. Try to put your tee shot down the right side of the fairway. The green opens up from there. Watch out for the greenside bunkers on your second shot and, whatever you do, you don't want to be long where you will find at least a tough chip and also bushes and out-of-bounds. The green slopes significantly from back to front, particularly in the back right and in the front of the green.

Hole 11: Par 4 (422, 422, 405, 395, Handicap 8/10) — This is one of the longer par 4s. The pines and other trees on the left must be avoided. The second shot is difficult to a slightly elevated green. It has steep green banks on all sides so that shots missing the green will leave a difficult chip. The green slopes generally from back to front and has a small false front. There are bunkers to the right and a water hazard over the green.

Hole 12: Par 4 (438, 438, 416, 343, Handicap 6/8) — This hole was redesigned in 1987. The green was rebuilt and moved back 50 yards. This is a long par 4 requiring a well-hit tee shot. The second shot will be to a two-tiered green with bunkers left and right. The upper tier is very small and it is difficult to hit with the second shot. When putting from behind the hole on the lower tier, putts can be much faster than you expect.

Hole 13: Par 4 (560, 529, 521, 441, Handicap 2/2) — This is a long dogleg right. The tee shot is usually into the wind, making it play longer. There is a large fairway bunker in the dogleg. Recovery shots from the fairway bunker are difficult because they are partially blocked by trees on the inside of the dogleg. An ideal tee shot is long and down the middle. One then plays around the dogleg into a fairly wide landing zone for the second shot. The third shot is difficult to a small elevated green with many undulations. The green slopes left to right and the ball will roll off the green to the right. Putting here can be very difficult.

Hole 14: Par 4 (373, 373, 351, 341, Handicap 12/6) — This is a dogleg left around a large scenic pond on the left. The ideal drive is a draw, usually with something less than a driver. Recovery from the trees on the right is difficult. The second shot is to an elevated green that slopes away from the player in the front and the left rear. The green generally slopes left to right. Chips from left and long of the green are very difficult.

Hole 15: Par 4 (510, 470, 443, 431, Handicap 4/4) — This is a dogleg left around the other side of the pond. The driving area is fairly wide if you avoid the pond and the trees on the right and through the dogleg. The landing area for the second shot is very tight. The green is long and narrow with bunkers on both sides. The green slopes from back to front and is very fast near the front of the green.

Hole 16: Par 4 (353, 340, 320, 232, Handicap 14/16) — This hole is short and straightaway. The carry over the Rawhide Creek should be no problem. Avoid the fairway bunker on the left and the trees on both sides of the fairway. The green is very small and slopes significantly from back to front. There is a hogback running down the middle of the green. Putts from behind the hole are very fast.

Hole 17: Par 4 (386, 386, 372, 358, Handicap 10/12) — A straight-away driving hole, OB down left side with trees down the right. A well-placed drive will give a short iron approach and the opportunity to finish your round with a birdie.

Hole 18: Par 4 (372, 352, 331, 323, Handicap 11/9) — Try to put your tee shot down the right side of the fairway. The green opens up from there. Watch out for the greenside bunkers on your second shot and, whatever you do, you don't want to be long where you will find at least a tough chip and also bushes and out-of-bounds. The green slopes significantly from back to front, particularly in the back right and in the front of the green.

Whitetail Run Golf Course

2725 Reed Lane
Fremont, NE
402-721-4403
Public, 18 holes

Tee times suggested two days in advance on weekdays, and up to a week in advance on weekends.

Course Highlights

Opened in 1962, this course features 2,461 yards of golf from the longest tees for a par of 34.

Whitetail Run is a challenging wooded rolling layout that will make you think your way around the course. The trees and the views of the Platte River are inspiring and make this course a joy to play.

A unique feature is that the par 3s are long, averaging 188 yards, and the par 4s are short, averaging just 285 yards.

Greens are a postage-stamp-size that demand accurate approach shots.

Holes 2, 5 and 7 have narrow, tightly tree-lined fairways with no room for error.

North Bend Golf Course

400 Cottonwood Street
North Bend, NE
402.652.3666
northbendgolfcourse.com
Public, 18 holes

North Bend Golf Course opened nine holes in 1995 and opened an additional nine in 2001. The grass is very well established throughout the course. The front nine measures 2,760 yards from the blue tees, and 2,566 from the white tees. The back nine is longer, measuring 3,103 from the blue tees and 2,928 from the white.

Water comes into play on seven of the holes. The greens are large and very well maintained. The fairways are in great shape and the rough is lush. The 100, 150 and 200 yardage markers are easily seen. The NBGC uses the Laser Link yardage system. The course rating is 67.2 with a slope rating of 108 on the blue tees. The interior of the clubhouse was recently remodeled with new carpet, tables and high definition televisions.
